President's Message

Dear QU,

If September is any indication, this year promises to be a fantastic one for QU! The Sully Quilt Show and Sale was unbelievable! The vendors had so many new fabrics, books, and patterns that I couldn't make up my mind, so I just bought a little bit of everything. The weather was fantastic so I took some time to enjoy looking at all the vintage quilts hanging on the clotheslines blowing in the breeze. Everything looked gorgeous.

Laura Cater-Woods' lectures were such a treat! I wish more members had taken advantage of the opportunity to hear her and see her work. It was interesting to see how someone who was traditionally trained to sew was able to combine those skills with very untraditional artistic abilities. She was a delight. I hope more of you will come out to hear our speaker, Sue Nickels, at the spring lectures.

The fall is a busy time for all of us especially with the holidays right around the corner. My best laid plans always involve lots of hand-made gifts for everyone, but I seem to run out of time and wind up making those quick 'n' easy last minute projects. Thankfully my quilting buddies are willing to share their latest and greatest easy gift ideas that are always a hit. It's still early in the season—why not schedule a gift exchange workshop with your chapter or bee and get a head start on these quick and easy projects? Maybe you can save yourself some time for more quilting during the holidays?

Whatever you do this fall, enjoy the beautiful fall colors and weather, your friends and family and take some time to quilt something wonderful!

Happy stitching,

Lynne Everly

The Sully Quilt Show was excellent. The weather was just lovely, not too hot, not humid and a gentle breeze most of the day. Our speakers were very well received.

QUEEN FOR A DAY -- The Fall Quilt-In was a great success!

In keeping with our theme, many folks wore crowns, of assorted designs and methodologies. Each chapter supplied a "judge" to select crowns noteworthy for certain characteristics (such as largest, most colorful, funniest, you get the idea). Some of the headpieces were definitely noteworthy -- not necessarily "regal" but definitely expressive of their makers!

We were treated to remarkable and beautiful quilts shared during show-and-tell. A special feature was the impressive "parade" of pink ribbon quilts made from blocks donated at the Quilt Show in June. Another special was the raffle quilt for the next Quilt Show, with exquisite applique and hand quilting. Displays of, and drawings for, the gorgeous "crown" blocks showed a good response to the patterns designed by Gene Ives. Hope to see some completed tops at the next Quilt-In!

Many folks went home with door prizes -- we had two kinds. Lots of them were donated by quilters individually and as chapters, and some were "royal" (super-special) prizes donated mostly by quilt-related businesses in our area. Every one of them added spice to the already enjoyable event. And we mustn't forget -- the food was excellent, a nice variety and plenty of it. After all, that's almost the most important thing, right?

The very most important thing -- the fun, fellowship, and lovely cooperative attitude enjoyed by all. Mt Vernon Chapter thanks everyone who attended, wore a crown, helped with show-and-tell, shared a quilt or two, judged crowns -- you made us feel really royal!

Clear Your Calendars for Quilt Show Classes!

Classes return to the 2006 QU Quilt Show! Starting with lectures Thursday afternoon and evening, June 1st, we will be presenting three full days of classes covering a wide spectrum of quilting techniques and patterns. Presentations should appeal to quilters of all levels, from bare beginners to very experienced stitchers looking to expand their repertoire.

We will be putting a page with specific teachers and class names on our quiltersunlimited.org website as soon as all contracts are confirmed, but we currently have verbal commitments for a weekend full of fun. A nationally known longarm quilter, will present classes on how to plan quilting patterns appropriate to your quilt top and eyeball them as you quilt without marking, on any make of longarm or domestic machine. Class participants will be able to try these techniques on Gammill machines.

For beginning or newish quilters, there will be a class on Piecing the Perfect Quilt block, full of tips and techniques for getting your piecing perfect, whether by hand or machine. Quilters of all levels can look forward to make-and-take classes for multiple quilts and wearables, including a sweatshirt jacket class with Priscilla Stultz, whose inspiring trunk show has been a highlight of several chapter meetings.

Intermediate quilters can improve their quilts with very easy methods for set-in seams and piping with the dynamic Susan Cleveland and special finishing techniques from Gayle Ropp, both of whom are very generous with their wide range of knowledge and experience. Those of us with closets full of fabric and boxes of scraps can benefit from excellent stash busting suggestions and free motion quilting advice.

Not confirmed yet, but we are hoping to offer very special rates on a local hotel, so you can plan to stay overnight close to the Expo Center and avoid rush hour traffic drives. Just as you plan a weekend in Lancaster, now you will be able to plan a weekend at the QU show, to take full advantage of the great vendors, excellent classes, and lovely quilts made by you, your chapter members, and your guild friends!

Award for Annandale Charity Efforts

Under the leadership of our Community Services chairwoman, Angela Barnes, the Annandale chapter of QU has, for the past 11 years, been making and donating quillows to the Residential Youth Services project for abused children. There are approximately 60 quillows per year donated. Annandale QU also donates approximately 40 baby quilts yearly for at-risk teen pregnancies. Members who have participated in these endeavors are Angela Barnes, Betty Beal, Marti Carrington, Jo Cotter, Ann Cox, Ramune Dailide, Paul Dick, Johnnie Fletcher, Mary Larson, Margaret Loftus, Dot Martin, Haru Myers, Rosalie Nahas, Carolyn O'Flaherty, Darryl Schanke, Virginia Stevens, Joyce Tobias, Ricci Waters, Stacy Northrup, Janet Grouchy, Linda Steans, Eileen Linares and Angela Shelton.

In June of 2004, AQU started an ongoing project with the Eleanor Kennedy Shelter located in the Route 1 corridor of Fairfax County. Again, under the leadership of Angela Barnes, a group of Annandale quilters teach quilting to the shelter residents every Tuesday evening. Since QU is a 501c(3) education nonprofit organization, it was determined that this would be an opportunity to share our quilting skills. This is a 2 year transitional shelter so there is some continuity with residents. AQU had helped the residents make 23 quillows for themselves and 20 to be donated to the family shelter (Mondloch House) for the children living there. The shelter residents had their first quilt show in August 2004 with 9 quilts. The quilt show was covered by the Mt. Vernon Gazette and the AQU was nominated for Fairfax County Volunteer of the Year Award. AQU recently received the New Hope Housing Volunteer of the Year Award. The members participating in this activity are Angela Barnes, Darryl Schanke, Margaret Loftus, Carolyn O'Flaherty, Joyce Tobias, Jo Cotter, and Johnnie Fletcher.

 New Location for Vienna Chapter *****

Vienna QU will meet at 7:00 p.m. on the third Tuesday of the month at the Vienna Elementary School located at 128 Center Street, South in Vienna.

Springfield QU's Annual Fall Auction

You are invited to the Springfield Annual Fall Auction to be held on November 15th, 2005 at Grace Presbyterian Church, 7434 Bath St. in Springfield, Va. The Auction will begin at 10 am., but come early to look over the wonderful auction items, then stop to look over "under $20 table" for some great finds and not necessarily quilt related. There is always an abundance of homemade foods. We have had in past auctions wonderful hand made quilts and beautifully embellished garments, baskets filled with interesting items, crafts and always some unexpected surprises. This event is always great fun and supported by our members. Hope to see you there and bring your friends. For more information please call Carolyn Pic 703-440-1491 or email at cpicinva@cox.net. Thanks for your support.
